

Out of the three plans that have been submitted to the FCC, this one is the most thought out plan. These changes should have been made when the Novice and Advanced was phased out. These changes will keep the historical basis of Amateur Radio while opening up the entry level Technician up to newer generations. CW is a very important skill. During emergencies, CW is the ONLY method of communications that can get through when it has to.